CARBON STEEL FLANGES

Carbon Steel Flanges

Carbon Steel Flanges are manufactured from carbon steel plates and are used to connect pipes, valves, and other components in a piping system. They are available in various types and sizes to suit different applications. Carbon Steel Flanges are commonly used in the oil and gas industry, chemical processing, and pharmaceutical industries.

Types of Carbon Steel Flanges:

- Plain Flanges
- Blind Flanges
- 90-degree Elbow Flanges
- Reducing Flanges
- Threaded Flanges
- Socket Weld Flanges

Dimensions:

Carbon Steel Flanges are available in various sizes and thicknesses. The size is determined by the diameter of the pipe or fitting it is intended to connect. The thickness is determined by the pressure rating of the flange. Common sizes for Carbon Steel Flanges include 1/2", 3/4", 1", 1-1/2", 2", 3", 4", 6", 8", 10", 12", 14", 16", 18", 20", 24", 30", 36", 42", 48", 54", 60", 66", 72", 78", 84", 90", 96", 102", 108",
